BULLDOZING IN HARRISON.

A Couple of Samule Cases-The Co. gressional Majorities-From Ten to Twelve Thousand Republicans Stayed at Home.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
CLARKSBURG, W. VA., Nov. 7.—Several instances of bulldozing have been reported since the election, and if these methods were generally adopted it is not at all astonishing that Pendleton and his party carried the district. There is n Republican employed in this city by a corporation whose rules are that their employes shall not engage in any business that will conflict with the interest of the employers. A certain Democratic ex-member of the Legislature and prominent talker for his party, had repeatedly endeavored to convert the employe to Democratic principles. Failing in this he reported him to the officers of the company as "guilty of gross negligence of duty caused by his endeavoring to run the politics of the district," and got the report in in such a way that the demand for an explanation should reach here on election day. Luckily it failed in its effect. The man had been employed by the concern for over twenty years and was known as a model of fidelity and faithrulness to its interests, and while, as a matter of business, an explanation was requested, it was done in such a way as to show that the still had the confidence of his employers, and moreover, that they were aware of the character of the complainant. It also indicated that he would not lose his position solely on the evidence of such a violent political partiesn. The explanation, together with explanation, together with explanation, together with explanation, together with explanation to the control of the character of the complainant. The explanation, together with explanation, together the control of the character of the control him to the officers of the company as partizan. The explanation, together with substantial evidence of the falseness of the charge, was immediately forwarded and the employe has not lost his place nor did he vote the Democratic ticket.

The second case was more successful.

A small farmer a few miles from here was made a delegate to the Republican County Convention and began to take quite an interest in politics and do some neighborhood. He owed a bill of considerable amount to the keeper of the village store. This man was a Democrat, and when he found that his debtor was harming the Democratic party he notified him that "unless he quit he could have no more goods, and further than than he would sue him for the debt." This threat was enough to put a quietus on the Republican's ambition, but the Democrat was not satisfied with that, for on the day before election he Republic and the same and the country of the same and the s but the Democrat was not satisfied with that, for on the day before election he began suit for the debt and would not hear to an extension of time until the Republican consented to vote the straight Democratic ticket. The suit was withdrawn yesterday. Your correspondent has had similar cases reported to him, but these two serve to show the means resorted to to carry this gounty.

Of the Linsly Instituto Cadets Yesterday Afternoon.

THE PUBLIC IS SURPRISED by the Boys-The New Armory Formally Accepted-An Ad-

The first dress parade of the Linsly

Cadet Corps was not only a success from a strictly military standpoint, but it was a gratifying exhibition of the discipline maintained in the school, and was wit House band marched down to Market up to Tenth, west to Main, down Mair Eof, where Lieutenant Braunners enther put them through the regular dress drill in vogue at all military posts and at West Point. After the exhibition the boys marched back to the new armory, where they and their friends were addressed by Hon. A. W. Campbell, President of the Board of Trustees. There were about five hundred people in the armory, and Mr. Campbell's remarks were received with applause, the heartiness of which showed how keenly they were appreciated by their

the Board of Trustees I am deputed to the perposs their gratification at witnessing this, your first, public parade of this session of the Institute. I am sure that in doing so I am not only expressing the interest which all here present feel in your progress, but likewise the interest and pride of this whole community in your progress, but likewise the interest and pride of this whole community in your success. We all congratulate ourselves that we have a clast a school of this character in Wheeling. We are glad that the Government has enabled us to afford you the advantages which you caping at this school, for not only advantage which you caping at this school, for not only advantage which you caping at the school, for not only advantage which you caping the progress in the future. The Government is aiding such schools as yours all over this country, not for the purpose of raising up an aggressive soldlery as in Europe, but for the purpose of affording the youth of our country the benefit of strict discipline and incutating a recognition of obedience to law and order as a wholesome principle in society.

I am glad to hear from your teachers such encouraging reports in regard to your appreciation of the advantages which you enjoy. Your school instead to being an objection and an amnoyance to the people of the neighborhood has become noticeable for your correct and manly deportment. Many boys who go to school feel that a portion of their time is to be given up to boyish pranks. This is the view of the ordinary school boy. But you are taught differently here. You are subjected to a discipline that is intended to eliminate this idea very early. This discipline may appear to some of your rather inknome at first, but you will be thankful for it in future is to be given up to boyish pranks. This is the view of the ordinary school boy.
